

Advocating for a Wrongfully Denied Claim

What Happened

A young man was involved in a devastating chain-reaction crash with multiple vehicles and fatalities.

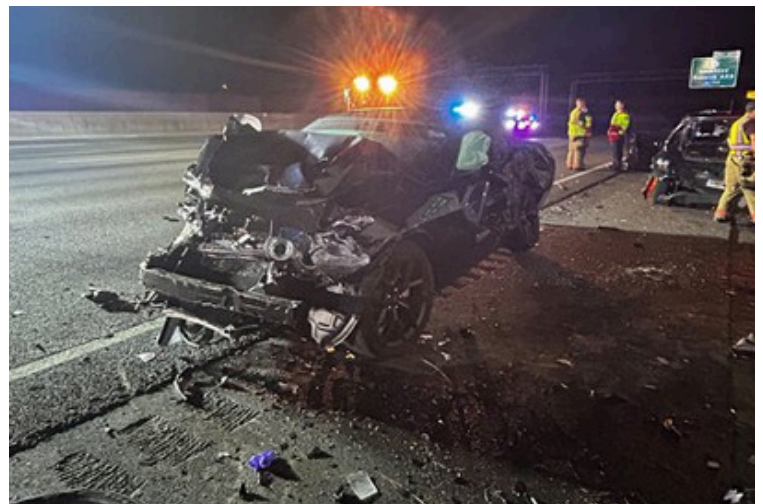

He suffered a concussion and injuries to his back and neck, requiring emergency care and months of treatment. Because of a brief loss of consciousness, his memory of the crash was impaired.

The Obstacles

The at-fault driver's insurance company denied the claim, instead alleging our client was responsible. The police report was incomplete, witnesses were deceased, and our client couldn't recall key details.

He initially hired another attorney, but after six months with little investigation or communication, he turned to The Balams Firm.

How We Fought Back

We launched a full investigation—securing supplemental reports, 911 calls, body cam footage, and crash reconstruction.

The evidence confirmed our client was not at fault.

The Result

WE RESOLVED THE CASE FOR POLICY LIMITS.

Our client was able to focus on healing, knowing his rights were protected and his future secured.
